Thank you for your letter of 18 April expressing your continued desire to come to work with us here.

I have had your previous application reviewed and understand there were some restrictions indicated by you which tended to limit the positions for which you could have been considered at that time. As your recent letter indicates a more general interest I am having new application forms sent you by my personnel director. If you will complete the forms when you receive them, and return them to us, we will review our vacancies and determine whether we now have something suitable for you. We will let you know as soon as possible after the forms have been received.

Congratulations on your approaching marriage which I am sure will bring you much happiness.

Sincerely,

Signed

Thank you very much for your letter of 18 May which just reached me today. I appreciate your very nice remarks, and I remember very well the excellent work you did in the Intelligence Center in Pearl Harbor. I am sorry that we did not have an opportunity to see each other in London.

I have taken your request for employment and have started it through the processing organizations in Central Intelligence. Whether there will be a place for you or not I cannot say inasmuch as budget requirements have been very considerably tightened as you may have gathered from having read the newspapers. However, if we can find a place for you, we shall advise you.

Again with thanks and with very best wishes for the best of luck, believe me,

Sincerely,

R. H. HILLENKOETTER
